DIA DECLASSIFICATION/RELEASE INSTRUCTIONS ON FILE

MEMORANDUM FOR: Chairman, Economic Intelligence Committee

SUBJECT : Annual Report for 1973

1. During Fiscal Year 1973, the Subcommittee on Shipbuilding virtually doubled its interagency coordination and review of intelligence on shipbuilding, shipping and related maritime fields. With the China Seapower Working Group functioning throughout the year, the Subcommittee was able to provide coverage of China and other Far East nations comparable in scope and depth of detail to the coverage normally devoted to shipbuilding in the USSR and East European countries.

2. Monthly meetings continued to attract large numbers of analysts and stimulate intensive discussion on a wide variety of current questions and ongoing research projects. Normally some 50-60 attend the Soviet Seapower meetings and some 35-45 the China Seapower meetings, representing components of CIA, DIA, NSA, Navy and State. The monthly meeting provides the best means for rapid dissemination of new analysis and a convenient forum for the discussion of conflicting views. The best examples the past year were the discussion on the new Soviet aircraft carrier and the possibility of a Chinese nuclear submarine, both items held high level interest.

3. The Subcommittee was not assigned a specific research project during the year. It continued to promote coordinated interagency review of individual member-agency projects, however, in addition to papers prepared for [REDACTED] requirement for a complete review of intelligence on China's naval missiles that will require participation by most PI intelligence components for completion.

4. With a continued high level of interest and participation in its regular activities, the Subcommittee probably could undertake selected EIC-directed research projects which require interagency pooling of resources and expertise. It is recommended that the EIC consider, for the coming year, identification of appropriate interagency problem areas to which the Subcommittee could devote specific research efforts.
